Agency overview

The NSW Department of Industry leads the state government's contribution to making NSW a place where people want to live and work and businesses choose to invest and grow.

We support all areas of economic activity where NSW has competitive strengths. We also have responsibilities for:

- Skill formation and development to match industry demand
- Partnering with stakeholders in stewardship and sustainable use of the state's natural resources; and
- Supporting economic growth in the regions.

Our strategies are built on close relationships to understand industry's needs. We deliver a wide range of training and specialist advisory services; and we help to secure efficient and dependable government decision-making that contributes to business confidence. We measure our success by the:

- Growth in quantity of employment and the value of output; and the
- Competitiveness and sustainability of industries in NSW.

NSW Primary Industries (NSW DPI) supports the development of profitable primary industries that create a more prosperous NSW and contributes to a better environment through the sustainable use of natural resources.

Within NSW DPI, the NSW Biosecurity & Food Safety division is responsible for the effective management of biosecurity threats to NSW and for providing certainty in the safety and integrity of the food supply chain in NSW. The Division promotes standards for the welfare of animals in production or in exhibits, and provides regional engagement and coordination in response to natural disasters impacting primary industries.

Primary purpose of the role

Lead and manage the veterinary pathology team in the provision of diagnostic pathology and associated research services to government and primary industry sector clients across NSW and nationally.

The role maintains a pathology caseload and has oversight of training programs for staff within this section.

Key accountabilities

- Lead the team in the provision of diagnostic and research services to deliver high quality pathology services to primary industry, LLS and public sector clients within agreed timeframes
- Provide scientific leadership and advice to professional and senior technical staff on animal diseases and pests across a broad range of species to ensure that decisions and project activities meet professional and client expectations
- Lead professional development of the team, by enabling ongoing training, participation in research and continuing education to ensure continuance of current and future scientific and diagnostic expertise that provides best practice service to clients
- Contribute to maintaining a close working relationship between the pathology team, other EMAI scientific disciplines and other parts of DPI and Local Land Services on animal biosecurity issues to assist with the management of potential biosecurity threats
- Collaborate, as a member of the EMAI leadership team to achieve its business objectives by contributing to human, physical, business and strategic planning, and evaluating system effectiveness
- Develop and implement sound risk management and governance arrangements with regard to the operations of the veterinary pathology service, negotiating resources, funding and milestones to deliver high quality services to clients
- Develop and maintain networks with other EMAI sections, government and non-government client research organisations, Universities and other customers, to collaborate and share information, participate in national technical committees to advise on issues, and identify opportunities to increase service provision

Key challenges

- Balancing biosecurity responsibilities with a commercial focus in providing services to a wide range of clients
- Maintaining knowledge of current and emerging trends within the specialty and ensuring continuing accreditation of the laboratory with regard to veterinary pathology
- Developing strong links between diagnostic and research functions and between diagnostic and research staff to ensure collaborative and productive partnerships are developed
